DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50 and 51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Altman (USPN6,287,340 B1).

Altman discloses the method for preparing an implant ex vivo for connective tissue substitution (specifically ACL) comprising the steps of providing a pair of bone anchors composed of coral or bone (abstract) and attaching these bone anchors by a support filament composed of a cylindrical 3-dimensional matrix formed of collagen gel (2:20-39). The matrix is seeded with stem cells or bone marrow stromal cells and subjected to mechanical forces (2:19-65). Osteoblast cells may be selected from a bovine species (13:62-14:22). The cells were mixed with an antibiotic, i.e. penicillin, and other pharmaceutical compounds to form the cell medium (14:36-52). The matrix and the bone anchor are coated with materials such as laminin, fibronectin, or factors containing arginine-glycine-aspartate peptides that produce enhanced bone and matrix attachment. After the incubation period fibronectin was found in the matrix layer (13:17-39). The substitute is used for connective tissue such as a tendon, cartilage or muscle. After the cells are seeded to the matrix the matrix is attached to the bone anchors and placed into a bioreactor where it undergoes the application of forces to simulate the forces that would be experienced in vivo.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/14/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments in view of Goldstein, Campbell, and Uematsu are moot in view of the above rejection. Contrary to Applicant's arguments with regards to Altman, as discussed above, Altman does in fact disclose bone anchors connected by a support filament (cylindrical 3-dimensional matrix).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
